PROTEK's EXPERTS TAKE HOLLYWOOD BY STORM. FEATURED IN STACY KEACH's CNBC
"AMERICAN GREED" FACEBOOK/ZUCKERBERG EPISODE TO EXPLAIN DIGITAL INVESTIGATION AND QUESTIONED DOCUMENT NUANCES.

Experts from PROTEK INTERNATIONAL, INC. were recently featured in CNBC's AMERICAN GREED: THE FUGITIVES real crime documentary series. Produced by KURTIS PRODUCTIONS, the episode showcased Protek's breadth and depth of expertise, calling upon Protek to explain both the digital investigation intricacies and questioned document nuances of the investigation to its viewers.

The episode, narrated by Stacy Keach, details Paul Ceglia's claims that Zuckerberg promised him half of Facebook while he was a Harvard student. Zuckerberg unleashed an aggressive cyber investigation that ultimately turned the tables, leaving Ceglia facing criminal charges and ultimately fleeing the country in the dark of night with his family. He remains a fugitive.

Bill Kurtis, nationally recognized and award winning television journalist, producer, narrator, news anchor, and founder of Kurtis Productions rates the episode a success and has been pleased to have the Protek team right in his own backyard, "I've been fortunate to be able to have Protek to call upon to consult on a few sensitive cyber issues that I've come across in my own enterprises."

Jeanne Heffron, Kurtis Productions Producer for the episode, was thrilled to find in Protek just what she needed for the episode. "While reporting on a high-profile case involving the social media behemoth Facebook and its founder Mark Zuckerberg, I knew it was essential that any cyber security or computer forensics experts I consulted have credentials and experience that would allow the firm to stand toe-to-toe with a company of Facebook's stature.

She found exactly what fit the bill in Protek. "Protek offered thoughtful analysis and insights which helped our audience grasp key issues in a very complex case. I'm grateful for their expertise, and should I find myself reporting on digital forensics issues in the future, I'll be back in touch," shared Heffron.

"Well, I don't know about us making the Hollywood Walk of Stars," laughed Keith Chval, a Protek co-founder and not-so-budding film star, "My brother always told me I had a face for radio anyways." "In all seriousness, I thought it was a very entertaining episode, and, for litigators and investigators out there, very enlightening as it pertains to their practices," related Chval.

Chval, Dan Bellich, Protek's Investigative Practice Director, and Tim Doris, Director of Digital Investigations and eDiscovery services, are featured in the episode. The half-hour episode can be viewed by visiting, <http://www.protekintl.com/news/cnbc/>, on Protek's web site. The three are happy to sign copies of the DVD upon request, but will otherwise be returning to their regularly scheduled activities!
