MANAGING PARTNERS

Protek's principals boast unrivaled expertise gained in distinguished careers in the federal and state criminal justice arenas.

DANIEL BELLICH

During his 27-year FBI career, Protek founder Daniel Bellich was entrusted with a wide range of supervisory responsibilities and case assignments. He developed expertise in complex white collar crime, organized crime, violent crimes and international drug trafficking cases. Dan compiled a distinguished record of leadership with the FBI, culminating as a Supervisory Special Agent in the Bureau's Chicago Field Office. Before joining the F.B.I., Bellich worked as an accountant for Ernst & Ernst.

KEITH CHVAL

Co-Founder Keith Chval crowned a 13-year career as a prosecutor by creating and leading the Illinois Attorney General's High Tech Crimes Unit – one of the first multi-disciplinary high tech crimes units in the country. His team of prosecutors, computer forensic examiners, and investigators garnered a 100% conviction rate in over one hundred cases during Chval's seven years as Unit Chief. Chval is also an adjunct professor of law in The John Marshall Law School's LLM program, teaching classes on electronic discovery, computer forensics, digital evidence, and cyber-crime-related topics.
